AN ACT
AMENDING SECTIONS 2 AND 5 OF REPUBLIC ACT NO. 9227, OTHERWISE
KNOWN AS AN ACT GRANTING ADDITIONAL COMPENSATION IN THE
FORM OF SPECIAL ALLOWANCES FOR JUSTICES, JUDGES AND ALL OTHER
POSITIONS IN THE JUDICIARY WITH THE EQUIVALENT RANK OF JUSTICES
OF THE COURT OF APPEALS AND JUDGES OF THE REGIONAL TRIAL COURT

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Republic Act No. 9227 grants "additional compensation in the form of special allowances for justices, judges and all other positions in the judiciary with the equivalent rank of justices of the Court of Appeals and judges of the Regional Trial Court." Such special allowances are intended to be part of the basic salary of the justices, judges and all other positions in the judiciary of equivalent rank.

Since the special allowances received by incumbent justices under R.A. No. 9227 are, to all intents and purposes, part of their increased basic salary, such increase becomes the basis of their retirement pension at the time of their cessation in office. Section 3-A of Republic Act No. 910 as amended (commonly referred to as the "Retirement Law for the Judiciary"), explicitly states that whenever the salary of an incumbent justice of the Supreme Court or Court of Appeals is increased, such increased salary shall be deemed to be the salary or retirement pension which a justice who retired was receiving at the time of his cessation in office.

Those surviving justices, judges and all court officials who, while in the service, held positions in the judiciary of equivalent rank to that of justices of the Court of Appeals and judges of the Regional Trial Court and who have retired prior to November 11, 2003 (the date of effectivity of R.A. No. 9227) should be extended similar financial benefits. For this purpose, there should be a readjustment of their retirement benefits to include the amounts corresponding to the special allowances received by incumbent justices, judges and court officials holding positions equivalent to the ranks of justice of the Court of Appeals and judge of the Regional Trial Court as long as they are qualified to receive monthly pensions under R.A. No. 910.

The appropriate legislation should be enacted granting special allowance to those who have retired prior to November 11, 2003, the date of the effectivity of R.A. No. 9227 by upgrading their retirement gratuities.

The foregoing considered, immediate approval of this bill is highly sought.
